Good News for Small Business on Health Insurance Reform May 18, 2010

This week the IRS provided guidelines for allowing small businesses to qualify for significant tax credits under health insurance reform.

The Affordable Care Act is providing tax credits, effective beginning in tax year 2010, for millions of American small businesses to help them offer health insurance coverage to their employees – if they choose to do so.

The IRS announced a number of tax credit details, including:

- that the new tax credit will not be reduced by a state health care tax credit or subsidy (except in limited circumstances to prevent abuse of the credit);
- small businesses can receive the credit not only for traditional health insurance coverage but also for add-on dental, vision, and other limited-scope coverage; and
- detailed guidance on how a small business can determine whether it is eligible and how large a credit it will receive

Under the reforms, North Carolina's small businesses can receive tax credits to cover 35 percent of the small business's premium costs this year, and 50 percent beginning in 2014. These businesses are not required to provide health insurance, but many want to in order to retain and recruit good workers.

Affordable coverage for small businesses is a top priority, and Congress must make sure the reforms are working for them.

Farmers Reminded DCP Enrollment Deadline is June 1

The deadline for farmers to enroll in the USDA Direct and Counter-Cyclical Payment Program is Tuesday, June 1st.

Enrollment has been lackluster statewide with only 58 percent of last year's participants enrolled. In Pitt County, only 26 percent of 2009's enrollees have signed up. In past years, farmers have seen the deadline extended due to changing USDA rules mandated by the Farm Bill. Not so in 2010. Just two weeks remain before the enrollment period is closed.

Over 50,000 farmers were contracted through DCP in 2009, and it remains an important support system for local agriculture. Farmers should be sure to make contact with their county Farm Service Agency (FSA) in advance of the deadline to make an appointment and enroll in DCP. If you have questions about DCP, please contact your local FSA office or visit www.fsa.usda.gov on the web.

Resolution Commemorating NCCU Centennial

Last week, Congressman David Price and I introduced a resolution celebrating the centennial anniversary of North Carolina Central University (NCCU), one of the nation's oldest and most prestigious Historically Black Colleges and Universities.

Congressman Price's district includes NCCU while I earned my bachelor's and juris doctorate from the university.

The resolution recognizes the leadership of the school's founder, Dr. James E. Shepard, who started the university in 1909. Dr. Shepard guided the university until 1947, increasing its size, expanding its mission, and securing the support of the North Carolina state legislature. In 1925, the school became the nation's first state-supported liberal arts college for African-American students.

"NCCU is a pillar of the Durham community, that has long produced leaders dedicated to public service at the local and state levels," Congressman Price said. "It is a privilege to represent the university in Congress and to introduce this resolution today, which celebrates a great success story in the world of higher education."

I am proud to be a graduate of our nation's first public liberal arts institution founded for African-Americans. NCCU is an integral part of the University of North Carolina that upholds its strong liberal arts tradition and commitment to academic excellence and diversity.

NCCU offers bachelor's degrees in more than 100 fields of study, and awards graduate degrees in over 40 disciplines.

The full text of the resolution follows:

RECOGNIZING NORTH CAROLINA CENTRAL UNIVERSITY On Its 100th ANNIVERSARY

Whereas North Carolina Central University (NCCU) in Durham, North Carolina was chartered in 1909 as a private institution and opened to students on July 5, 1910;

Whereas the School was founded by Dr. James E. Shepard as the National Religious Training School and Chautauqua for the Colored Race with the purpose of developing African-American men and women into citizens of fine character and sound academic training;

Whereas the School's name was changed to the National Training School in 1915, following its sale and reorganization;

Whereas the School became a publicly supported institution in 1923 under the name of the Durham State Normal School, with funding from the North Carolina General Assembly;

Whereas the General Assembly rededicated the institution as the North Carolina College for Negroes in 1925, making it the nation's first state-supported liberal arts college for African-American students;

Whereas the College saw significant expansion between 1927 and 1929 through additional funding from the General Assembly, a generous gift from B.N. Duke, and contributions from the citizens of Durham;

Whereas the College was accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools as a class "A" institution in 1937, and gained membership in that association in 1957;

Whereas the College was authorized to offer graduate studies in 1939, which led to the establishment of the School of Law in 1940 and the School of Library Science in 1941;

Whereas the General Assembly changed the name of the institution to North Carolina College at Durham in 1947 and, finally, to North Carolina Central University in 1969;

Whereas NCCU became part of the consolidated University of North Carolina system, which includes all 16 of North Carolina's public institutions that grant baccalaureate degrees, in 1972;

Whereas the University was led by Dr. Shepard from its inception until his death on October 6, 1947, and was led subsequently by Dr. Alfonso Elder, Dr. Samuel P. Massie, Dr. Albert N. Whiting, Dr. LeRoy T. Walker, Dr. Tyronza R. Richmond, Julius L. Chambers, Dr. James H. Ammons, and Dr. Charlie Nelms;

Whereas NCCU currently offers bachelor's degrees in more than 100 fields of study and awards graduate degrees in about 40 disciplines;

Whereas the U.S. News and World Report recently ranked NCCU the number-one Public Historically Black College and University (HBCU) in the country, the number-one HBCU in North Carolina, and one of the top ten HBCUs in the country overall;

Whereas the NCCU School of Law has been named the "Best Value Law School" in the nation by National Jurist magazine for two consecutive years;

Whereas NCCU has a state-of-the-art biotechnology research institute that collaborates with pharmacy and biotechnology companies in the Research Triangle area of North Carolina and trains students to meet the State's biotechnology workforce needs;

Whereas the University is home to the "Marching Sound Machine," an award-winning marching band that will be performing on New Year's Day 2011 in the Rose Parade, and the NCCU Jazz Ensemble, which recently performed in the Newport Jazz Festival;

Whereas NCCU sports teams have won 41 conference championships, three NCAA regional titles, and two national championships (1989 NCAA Division II men's basketball and 1972 NAIA men's outdoor track and field);

Whereas more than 50 student-athletes have won individual NCAA and NAIA national championships;

Whereas student-athletes representing NCCU competed in every Olympic Games from 1956 to 1976 in track and field, capturing eight Olympic medals during that span, including five gold medals;

Whereas NCCU was the first state university in North Carolina to establish community service as a requirement for graduation and has been recognized by the Carnegie Foundation as a "community-engaged university";

Whereas NCCU has graduated approximately 40,000 students in the century since its founding and now has the largest freshman class in its history, with an overall record enrollment of more than 8,500 students;

Whereas NCCU and its home city of Durham, North Carolina, have long enjoyed a close and mutually beneficial relationship; the University's total economic impact on Durham and the surrounding region has been estimated at more than $300 million per year; and thousands of NCCU graduates have served Durham and its citizens as leaders, educators, professionals, entrepreneurs and volunteers; and

Whereas NCCU's undergraduate and graduate programs have produced many distinguished alumni, including, to name just a few, civil rights lawyer and educator Julius L. Chambers, basketball Hall of Fame member Sam Jones, two-time Olympic track gold medalist Lee Calhoun, North Carolina philanthropy executive Valeria L. Lee, Vogue magazine editor André Leon Talley, attorney Willie E. Gary, banking executive Evelyn F. Smalls, insurance executive James Speed, educator and state Senator Jeanne Hopkins Lucas, former North Carolina House of Representatives Speaker Dan Blue, longtime state legislator Henry M. “Mickey” Michaux, former Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson, biochemist Ida Stephens Owens, actor and director Ivan Dixon, Metropolitan Opera soprano Hilda Harris, psychologist Norman B. Anderson, former Raleigh Mayor Clarence Lightner, former North Carolina Governor Michael F. Easley, U.S. Congresswoman Eva Clayton , and U.S. Congressman G.K. Butterfield;

Now, therefore, be it –

Resolved, that the House of Representatives –

(1) honors the memory of Dr. James E. Shepard for his role in founding North Carolina Central University;

(2) celebrates the 100th anniversary of North Carolina Central University, recognizes the University’s accomplishments over the past century, and encourages North Carolina’s citizens to participate in activities marking this historic occasion; and

(3) directs the Clerk of the House of Representatives to make available five enrolled copies of this resolution to Dr. Charlie Nelms, the current Chancellor of North Carolina Central University.
